Mark's CV in brief

- Private Secretary to four Secretaries of State for Transport
- Senior business roles including as a Compliance Director
- Campaigned in local elections across South of England
- Led Danny Chambers' successful campaign in Winchester
- Manages 5,500 council houses, with 12,000 tenants
- Civil servant for nine years, running complex rail contracts

A Winning Campaigner

I know what it takes to beat Labour and the Conservatives and the threat from Reform. I ran Danny Chambers' campaign in Winchester to get the biggest result of any new Lib Dem MP.

As a councillor I've won tough elections and helped lead campaigns that delivered real results. I've been out on the doorsteps right across the South of England, speaking with voters, building trust, and winning votes. I will bring that same winning energy and focus to Aylesbury.

Experience of Government

I am proud of my record as a district councillor and cabinet member, looking after 5,500 council homes. I bring professional experience in the rail industry where I've delivered multi-billion-pound contracts and of Government where I worked at the most senior levels, alongside Cabinet Ministers.

Taking the fight to Reform

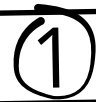

Politics has changed: Labour and the Conservatives are on the back foot, and Reform are taking their place, as we have seen first-hand in by-elections across the country. We cannot let them gain a foothold and spread their divisive, hate-filled message.

I spent much of my childhood on a council estate in County Durham in the aftermath of the pit closures. I know what happens when people feel left behind — and I know how to win their trust back. That background means I can take the fight to Reform.

How we can WIN in Aylesbury

A strong local campaign

Mark will bring his campaigning and business experience to repeat the success he delivered in Winchester here in Aylesbury.

He will make sure Aylesbury is a target seat so we get the support we need to run a winning campaign at the next General Election.

Taking the fight to Reform

Labour have failed and the Conservatives are in disarray. This time it's about stopping Nigel Farage's Reform. That's a completely different battle — and we need a candidate ready for it.

Growing up on a council estate in County Durham, Mark knows how to speak to people who feel their communities have been left behind.

Reform want to frame themselves as the only voice of change. The only way to beat them is with a candidate who embodies real change for us too.

Fighting for better local services

Local people feel let down by this Labour Government. Mark will fight for the investment our town needs to keep up with development. Too many new homes have been built without matching investment in GP surgeries, school places and public transport.

People are rightly proud of the incredible work done at Stoke Mandeville Hospital, but we know that there is frustration at waiting times, staffing pressures, the state of the building itself and whether it can cope with continued population growth.

Bus services have deteriorated and we still face years and years of disruption related to HS2, which will come with little benefit to Aylesbury.

Mark will fight to make sure our area gets the investment it needs to flourish.

A Serious voice in Parliament

Mark worked as a civil servant for nearly a decade. He served four cabinet ministers as senior private secretary and has sat in the Chamber of the House of Commons dozens of times, supporting his Ministers from the Officials' Box.

He will hit the ground running, already having a good understanding of how Parliament works. Having been director of a large business, he understands how complex organisations work.

He will deliver for our communities from day one.
